

Principles of Yard & Warehouse Operations Seminar

March 6 Innovative Professional Offices, 5800 Ambler Dr, Mississauga, ON L4W 4J4

Our seminar is designed to provide a clearer understanding of the yard function and its impact to profitability and customer service. Although designed for retail lumberyard foremen, the stores who also send upper management or ownership will learn that for principles applied at the yard level to be most effective (have a positive effect on the bottom line), they need to have the support of the overall store management. The instructor has been very surprised at the general lack of employees' understanding of what is expected of them in this industry position. This seminar effectively addresses this problem through storytelling, interaction and brainstorming so that each student is very clear on the principles that need to be managed for the overall benefit of the store. The LBMAO has had many very positive responses to this course and each attendee returns to their store with a binder full of tools that can be adapted to your store setting.

Registration 7:45 am. Breaks and lunch will be provided.

Course runs 8:00 am - 4:00 pm
